

Transcript 2 – How can we support and empower young children to think about their futures?

DR. COCO WONG

“That is the best time, absolutely the best time for them to start learning stuff because they are curious about things. So, when they are curious they ask ‘why?’, we tell them, that sparks more curiosity and that is the basis of learning. When they are curious, they want to find out more, right? And at that young age, it is actually very easy to disguise any sort of learning into activities and fun games and make them engaged and want to do more.”
